

Invergowrie - Kingoodie Shore Walk

Path - Invergowrie - Kingoodie Shore Walk and link to Invergowrie Walks Network

Path
Public road (minor)
Public road (main)
Public road (unclassified)
Railway track
Private track
Field margin
Water
Sites of interest	Red text

0.5 km

CoGG map 006 prepared August 2007

Invergowrie - Kingoodie Shore Walk

Location	This walk runs along the banks of the Tay between Invergowrie and Kingoodie.
Type	A route largely on quiet tracks and a minor public road.
Description	This scenic and historically interesting walk runs along the banks of the Tay from Invergowrie Railway Station to Kingoodie. Although this route is partly on a public road, it is fairly quiet and has the advantage that it links up with the walks network at SCRI highlighted above. This is an excellent walk for bird watching in Kingoodie bay. The path is wide, surfaced and level, apart from one short section near the footbridge over the railway at the eastern end of the path, and a narrow section of road near the railway bridge over the Low Carse Road into Kingoodie. For these reasons the route is unsuitable for wheelchair and disabled access.
Distance	1.25 miles
Parking	Parking is available in Invergowrie and Kingoodie, please take care not to block access.
Local sites of Interest	Dargie Church (now in ruins, is a site of an ancient place of Christian worship and is associated with the old Celtic Church. One story is that it was founded by a priest named St Boniface around the year 715. Dargie Church fell into disuse in the 18th century meaning that the site would have been a place of Christian worship for about 1000 years. The water filled quarries where stone was last extracted 100 years ago and shipped out from the neighbouring harbour. The old harbours at Kingoodie served other quarries that now form an attractive wildlife sanctuary which can be accessed via the path under the railway at the end of Falkland Place and link with the walks network round SCRI. Did you know that the Bell Lighthouse and the London Embankment are built with stone from these quarries? The old boat house on the promontory at Kingoodie makes an excellent site for bird watching. Invergowrie Walks Network – view our page http://www.cogg.org.uk/LocalGroups1Walks.asp for details. Living Field Garden – view our page http://www.cogg.org.uk/LocalGroups1SitesofInterest.asp for a description or see the Living Field Website http://www.scri.ac.uk/livingfield

Invergowrie - Kingoodie Shore Walk

Special precautions

Take care crossing the Low Carse road at the bridge over the railway near Kingoodie, it is difficult to see oncoming traffic.

Legal

CoGG make every effort to ensure that the information provided in our maps is accurate and up-to-date although we cannot guarantee that this is the case. We will not be held responsible for any loss, damage or inconvenience caused as a result of any inaccuracy, error or omission in mapped information. If in doubt, you should use these maps in conjunction with some other nationally published map and be aware of the Scottish Outdoor Access Code at all times.